

CURRICULUM VITAE: Eric S. Lander

founding director of the Broad Institute professor of biology at MIT, professor of systems biology at Harvard Medical School and member of the Whitehead Institute for Biomedical Research

Education:

1978 B.A. in mathematics from Princeton University
1981 Ph.D. in mathematics from Oxford University as a Rhodes Scholar.

Awards:

1987 MacArthur Foundation Prize Fellowship
1997 elected a member of the U.S. National Academy of Sciences
1998 Woodrow Wilson Prize for Public Service from Princeton University
1999 elected a member of the U.S. Institute of Medicine
2001 City of Medicine Award
2002 Gairdner Foundation International Award of Canada
2004 AAAS Award for Public Understanding of Science and Technology

Scientific career:

1981-1990 assistant and associate professor of managerial economics at the Harvard
Business School
1990 Foundation of the Whitehead Institute/MIT Center for Genome Research